They once lived in peace with the elves. Now with the destiny they need to find a way to accomplish it. With the help of the elves they got a lot of chance to accomplish the prophecy. But at what cost...

➤ Dwarf

From the beginning of all the world, they lived in the depths of the mountains. They never left their kingdom until one day. A raid was lead against them by the orcs. The orcs forced the door of Kol'orim, the city of the forges. The orcs got into their whole city. Killing childrens and adults. They finally got stopped by Kol'orim itself. The king of the forges lead his troops to victory they then could hope to find back the peace they had before the war...

➤ Demon

The few mortals that had their evilness too high got transformed in demons by the Darkness itself. The ancients thought said that the transformation was an ultimate punishment for those who would get too evil to get saved.

➤ Angel

The few mortals that got the privilege to become angels got transformed by the Great God himself. Extending their life for the good of the world, he provided them the ability to live forever and gave them a simple but hard quest to do... Free the lands of the mortals of the evil menace. But a few rules was set for the angels. They couldn't interact directly with the evil, they could only help the mortals with indirect help. Which meant that they couldn't kill the evil themselves... Making the task to save the mortals much harder...
